DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 1-3 and 5-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Yamazaki (Pat. No. JP 07274140 A).

3. Consider claim 1. Yamazaki teaches a video reproduction apparatus for not only reproducing a video signal comprising a main video and a sub-video to display the video signal but also outputting OSD (On Screen Display) data (para. 0028) indicative of predetermined information to display the OSD data (fig. 7), comprising: a determining device for determining a display position of the sub-video on a displayed screen (para. 0029); an OSD-display position setting device for setting an OSD-display position of the OSD data not so as to overlap with the display position of the sub-video (para. 0029); and a superposing device for superposing, on the main video, not only the sub-video at the display position thereof but also the OSD data at the OSD-display position (para. 0027).

4. Consider claim 2. Yamazaki teaches that the sub-video is a caption on the main video (para. 0027)

Art Unit: 2616

5. Consider claim 3. Yamazaki teaches that the OSD-display position setting device is configured so as to select a certain OSD-display position from a plurality of pre-specified OSD-display positions (para. 0065; fig. 3).
6. Consider claim 5. Yamazaki teaches an operating device used for giving instructions to a display condition of the OSD data (para. 0013), wherein the OSD-display position setting device is configured so as to set the OSD-display position on the basis of the instructions provided from the operating device (para. 0018).
7. Method claims 6-8 are rejected using similar reasoning as the corresponding apparatus claims 1-3 above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamazaki (Pat. No. JP 07274140 A).

Consider claims 4 and 9. Yamazaki teaches a video reproduction apparatus reproducing a video signal comprising a main video, a sub-video and an OSD (On Screen Display) data (para. 0028) indicative of predetermined information to display the OSD data (fig. 7), comprising of a determining device, an OSD-display position setting device, and a superposing device. He teaches that the OSD-display position setting device is configured so as to set the OSD-display position at various places on the screen (fig. 5; fig. 7).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to use, that the OSD-display position could be at a side facing to the display position of the sub-video on the displayed screen.
